

THE DAILY BULLETIN

FRIDAY EVE, JANUARY 9, 1886.

The terms of twenty-five Senators will expire on the 4th of March.

There are one hundred and fifty-four entries for the Lexington steeple races.

The teachers of the schools of Manchester are attending the New Orleans Exposition in a body.

The House Committee has rejected the Buckner bill to suspend the coinage of standard silver dollars.

According to the report of the Secretary of the Interior there are now in this country 79,892 Mormons.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue rules that seven months' extension will be given on bonded whisky.

Says the Lexington Transcript; it is better to be poor and honest than a trusted official apportioning "over the border."

During the year 1884 one hundred and thirty-seven industrial enterprises, with an aggregate capital of $21,702,000 were established in this State.

Secretary McCollough believes that in business affairs the very worst has been reached, and that all indications now point to better times.

The bankrupt bill will be considered by the House again next Tuesday. The large vote in its favor on Monday gives encouragement for the hope that it may pass.

The weight of a bushel of corn in the State of Ohio is sixty-eight pounds instead of seventy as heretofore. The change was made by a recent act of the Legislature.

The report of the Central and South American commission recommends the establishment of a new executive department, with a cabinet ruler at the head, to encourage foreign commerce.

The Lexington Board of Underwriters have held a meeting and reduced insurance rates from 10 to 20 per cent, in view of the completion of the water-works, an annual saving to insurers of about $15,000 per year.

About one hundred and ninety of three hundred and twenty-six of the present House of Representatives have been elected to the next House. Of the one hundred and thirty-five new members, over one hundred, or about one-third of the entire House, will be without Congressional experience.

The Lexington Press fixes the shortage of Seraphim, the late teller of the City National Bank, at $30,000, and says that he began stealing the first month he entered upon his duties. Thirty thousand dollars were taken by him since last May. When he left Lexington it is supposed he had only $2,000 which was found missing from the cash of the day before.

The only amendment made to the pension appropriation bill, which has passed the House, was one to the effect that it should be taken for granted that applicants for pensions had no disabilities at the time of their entering the service and others to limit fees to $10, payable after the allowance of the claim except in case of written contract, when $25 may be paid, and to provide that white and colored pensioners shall be paid under the same regulations.

The fallibility of jury judgments, in cases involving human life is made emphatic by a distressing story which comes from Ottawa. George Lowder was hanged in June last for a murder which his father, on Saturday, before his death, confessed himself guilty of. The son was innocent, and protested his innocence to the last. He was found guilty however, by the jury because the boots which fitted the murderer's tracks, were acknowledged to be his own. This was truly a slender circumstance. The young man knowing his father to be guilty, sacrificed himself rather than bring his father to the gallows.

The Anti-Vaccination Outcry. [Medical and Surgical Report.]

In spite of the absolutely overwhelming testimony proving the efficacy of vaccination, properly performed and repeated as required, is a preventive of small-pox as complete as can be desired, and that its ill effects are so rare and so slight that they do not have the weight of a feather in comparison with the great evils which it opposes and cures, the anti-vaccinationists are dragging forward the bubble of vaccine syphilis. Any such statement made in Great Britain would receive prompt contradiction on the spot. Therefore they are sent to journals thousands of miles away, and to those which are not edited by medical men, who can prove our assertion by reputable English journal. As for the nonsense of vaccine-syphilis, not one practitioner in twenty, either here or in England, ever saw a case of it.

LOVE REVEALED BY DEATH.

Letters from an Albany Lady Found After G. A. Benson's Suicide.

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., Jan. 9.—George A. Benson, of Philadelphia, who committed suicide here Saturday morning, was a son of the head of the house of Benson & Townsend. He was under a charge of cheating and swindling. He stopped at the Markham House in Atlanta for three weeks. On his departure he had no money and gave the proprietor a check on his house for $100 and received the difference of about $40. At the same time he gave a second check for $100, saying that when they were cashed to notify him at Lawrenceville and he would draw out for the money. The check was cashed, and the proprietor, Mr. Benson said while under arrest that he would have been honored if his father had been in the house at the time. He was here on a visit to R. D. Hertz.

One evident cause of suicide was his want of means. But another was a love affair. The corner turned round by Mr. Hertz, as the most intimate friend of the dead man, a batch of eighty-six letters from Miss R. A. Benson, a daughter of J. L. Benson, member of the firm of J. L. Benson & Co. of New York. His letters are perfect gems of literature, replete with the expressions of the most ardent and intense devotion. It is so from them that a ripple had broken their love, no one can tell what, but she loved and adored him still. She is a young lady of culture and refinement and one of the highest circles of New York society. In one of her letters she writes of having been invited to receive her father and mother home with Mrs. McElroy, sister of President Arthur and her daughter, together with the other ladies. They were engaged to be married last April, but always came between them, which seemed to forbid their union and the letters are filled with expressions of despair. The lady has been sent to Philadelphia, and the letters have been sent by express to the young lady in Albany.

THE LIBERTY BELL.

The Pomp and Ceremony With Which It Will Start for New Orleans.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—The date of the departure of the Liberty bell from this city on its journey to New Orleans has been changed from January 24 to the 23d, the day on which Mayor Smith has signified his intention of arriving in New Orleans. The departure will be accompanied with great pomp and ceremony. The bell will be escorted from Independence Hall to the Pennsylvania railroad station, at Thirty-first and Market streets, by 500 policemen and the committee of the council. At the station it will be placed in a car which is now being built for its reception by the Pennsylvania railroad company. The bell will be in the center of the car under a red, white and blue canopy. The sides of the car will be open, and at one end will be a compartment for the accommodation of the three officers who will form the guard. On one side will be emblazoned the word "Philadelphia," and on the other "New Orleans." Each side will bear the legend, "Proclaim Liberty Throughout the Land." The car will be taken into the exhibition grounds, and the bell will not be escorted until its return to this city. The train will make thirteen stops, symbolic of the thirteen original states, during the trip between this city and New Orleans. A telegram from that city to-day said that arrangements to give the bell a grand reception, and that three policemen of the Crescent City had been appointed to accompany the Philadelphia officers in guarding it.

He Chose a Nether Field.

OTTAWA, Jan. 9.—It has just become known that Quebec has been the refuge of one of France's most prominent statesmen, Secretary of state, Auguste Delmas, who is now in France for having violated certain laws referring to banking firms of that country. A few days ago the proprietors of Le Canadian, a newspaper, gave a dinner to a number of prominent persons, and the response of Delmas to the toast, "to the paper," was certain words, displayed such ability of thought, and such familiarity with French affairs, that inquires into Delmas's personality began to be made. It is "said out" that he was the renowned Quaker, Navey, a former under secretary, but was a refugee, and the acting literary editor of a French local journal. He is living in Quebec with the wife of his former secretary.

A Homage to a Reporter Did It.

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 9.—The report published in a Wheeling paper and telegraphed in a Wheeling paper, that a country wrecking the arrest at Gratton, Va., of Mrs. Burton on a charge of attempting to pass a passenger train on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was so founded, in fact, was purporting to be a detailed account of the disaster at attempt at train wrecking was received with great interest, the imaginative individual who wrote the story being determined apparently not to permit facts to interfere with his presenting the thrilling account to the public. General Superintendent Clements of the Baltimore and Ohio has telegraphed headquarters here denouncing the whole story as a fabrication.

Jay Gould Going South.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Mr. Jay Gould, late of the Erie steam yacht, Atlanta, put in a rough week-end at his home, and is to sail on a steamer on his way to the south. The yacht will be sent in a day or two to Charleston, S. C., and Mr. Gould and family will leave the city about January 15 for that place, where they will embark. The programme as arranged includes a stop at Savannah, Jacksonville and St. Augustine on the way down the Atlantic coast. The party will visit the New Orleans Exposition. It is believed that the great capitalist will return to Wall Street afterward, taking time to inspect personally the railroads of the Southern system. Mr. Gould will be about from New York about four months.

Ex-Lieut.-Governor Benjamin Bick.

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 9.—The Journal's Minneapolis special says: Ex-Lieut.-Governor James M. Bingham died this morning after a long illness, at the age of 86; seven years. He was one of the most distinguished lawyers of the northwest.

Hartnet Reported.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 9.—The governor has reported Patrick Hartnet, the wife murderer, under sentence to hang January 31 at Columbus. It may be that he will be executed on that day, but the report is not to be taken as a fact.
